Description: Please join us at the Operating Engineers 324 Construction Career Center in Howell as we host a National Apprenticeship Week event on Monday, November 13th with the first speaker beginning at 8:00 a.m. As part of National Apprenticeship Week, attendees will hear about the importance of Apprenticeships from Congressman Dan Kildee, Dean Guido, Regional Director, Chicago Office of Apprenticeships and Doug Maibach, Executive Vice President and Vice Chairman, from Barton Malow.

The event is free and open to the public and business community. The event will begin with registration and networking over apple cider, coffee and donuts. Russ Davis, the State Director for the USDOL/Office of Apprenticeships will provide information about what it means to have registered apprentices, and what you need to know about getting your company started with registered apprenticeships. We will also provide information about how organizations like Operating Engineers 324 can help develop the next generation of skilled tradespeople. Besides the presentations, there will also be information tables from various related groups in the Operating Engineers 324 Construction Career Center.
